

---

Contents

Volume 1

Preface to the second edition v

Preface to the first edition vii

Acknowledgements from the first edition ix

Contributors list xxi

Section 1 The Subject Matter of and Approach to Psychiatry

1.1 The patient's perspective 3

Kay Redfield Jamison, Richard Jed Wyatt, and Adam Ian Kaplin

1.2 Public attitudes and the challenge of stigma 5

Graham Thornicroft, Elaine Brohan, and Aliya Kassam

1.3 Psychiatry as a worldwide public health problem 10

1.3.1 Mental disorders as a worldwide public health issue 10
Benedetto Saraceno

1.3.2 Transcultural psychiatry 13
Julian Leff

1.4 The history of psychiatry as a medical speciality 17

Pierre Pichot

1.5 Ethics and values 28

1.5.1 Psychiatric ethics 28
Sidney Bloch and Stephen Green

1.5.2 Values and values-based practice in clinical psychiatry 32
K. W. M. Fulford

1.6 The psychiatrist as a manager 39

Juan J. López-Ibor Jr. and Costas Stefanis

1.7 Descriptive phenomenology 47

Andrew Sims

1.8 Assessment 62

1.8.1 The principles of clinical assessment in general psychiatry 62
John E. Cooper and Margaret Oates

1.8.2 Assessment of personality 78
C. Robert Cloninger

1.8.3 Cognitive assessment 85
Graham E. Powell

1.8.4 Questionnaire, rating, and behavioural methods of assessment 94
John N. Hall

1.9 Diagnosis and classification 99

Michael B. First and Harold Alan Pincus

1.10 From science to practice 122

John R. Geddes

Section 2 The Scientific Basis of Psychiatric Aetiology

2.1 Brain and mind 133

Martin Davies

2.2 Statistics and the design of experiments and surveys 137

Graham Dunn

2.3 The contribution of neurosciences 144

2.3.1 Neuroanatomy 144
R. C. A. Pearson

2.3.2 Neurodevelopment 156
Karl Zilles

2.3.3 Neuroendocrinology 160
Charles B. Nemeroff and Gretchen N. Neigh

